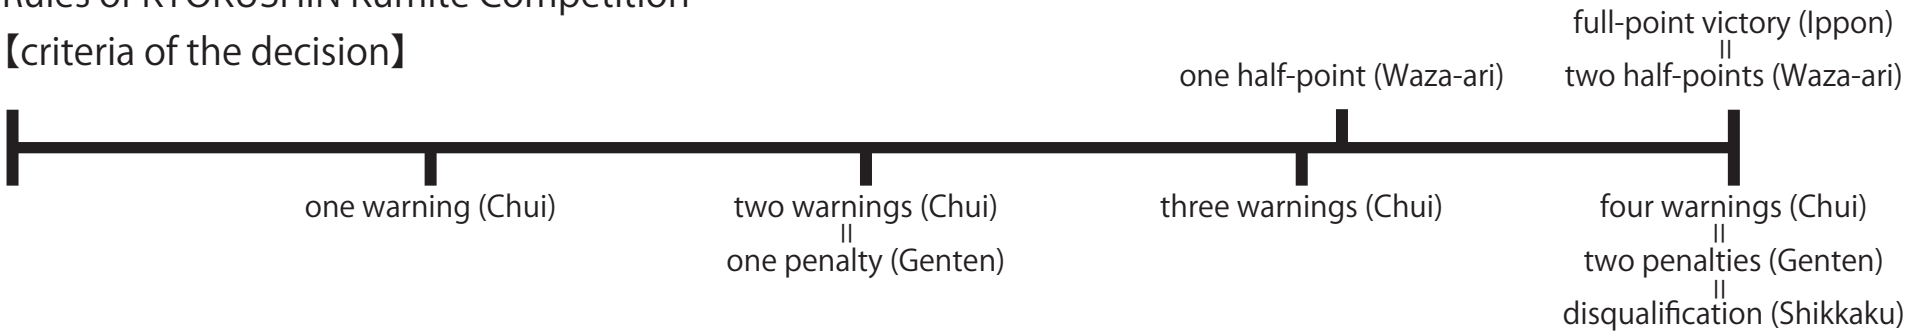
【criteria of the decision】



0 ≦ one warning ≦ two warnings ≦ three warnings < four warnings	The difference of one warning does not affect the decision excluding final extension. When the 4th time warning is declared, he/she will be disqualified.
0 ≦ two warnings	If there is difference of two warnings, the contestant declared two more than the other basically will lose. But if his/her offence is superior to the other at a rate of 8:2 or more, there is possibility of draw, except final extension.
0 < three warnings	If there is difference of three warnings, the contestant declared three more than the other will lose, unless he/she gets one half-point.
0 < four warnings	When the contestant is declared the 4th time warning, he/she will be disqualified.
one warning ≦ three warnings	In this case, there is difference of two warnings. So the contestant declared two more than the other basically will lose. But if his/her offence is superior to the other at a rate of 8:2 or more, there is possibility of draw, except final extension.
one warning < four warnings	When the contestant is declared the 4th time warning, he/she will be disqualified. The number of warnings will not offset.
two warnings < four warnings	When the contestant is declared the 4th time warning, he/she will be disqualified. The number of warnings will not offset.

0 < one half-point + one warning ≦ one half-point + two warnings ≦ one half-point + three warnings < one half-point + four warnings	The difference of one warning does not affect the decision excluding final extension. When the 4th time warning is declared, he/she will be disqualified.
0 < one half-point + two warnings	There is difference of two warnings. But the contestant declared two more warnings than the other gets one half-point, so he/she will win.
0 ≦ one half-point + three warnings	Because one half-point is scored, he/she will basically win. But if the other's offence is superior to him/her at a rate of 8:2 or more, there is possibility of draw, except final extension, because he/she is declared three more warnings.
0 < one half-point + four warnings	Even if one half-point is scored, when he/she is declared the 4th time warning, he/she will be disqualified.
one half-point + one warning ≦ one half-point + three warnings	There is difference of two warnings. So the contestant declared two more than the other basically will lose. But if his/her offence is superior to the other at a rate of 8:2 or more, there is possibility of draw, except final extension.
one half-point + one warning < one half-point + four warnings	When the contestant is declared the 4th time warning, he/she will be disqualified. The number of warnings will not offset.
one half-point + two warnings < one half-point + four warnings	When the contestant is declared the 4th time warning, he/she will be disqualified. The number of warnings will not offset.
